Sav-a-Life Golf Tournament Success at Cahaba Falls Country Club

BY SHEILA DUNCAN REPORTER

On July 27th, the Cahaba Falls Country Club hosted the annual Sav-a-Life Golf Tournament, a significant fundraising event for the Bibb Family Connections Pregnancy Resource Center. This year, the tournament saw an impressive turnout with 22 teams participating. The Bibb Belles, a dedicated group of volunteers, were on hand to assist with various tasks and ensure the event ran smoothly. Their commitment and willingness to help with projects and fundraisers are invaluable to Sav-a-Life's mission.

A special thank you goes to Bethel Baptist Church and Four Points Baptist Church for generously donating lunch for the players. Matthew Thomas played a crucial role in organizing the event, ensuring everything was in place for a

West Blocton Police Department Offers Friendly Reminder Regarding House Numbers

BY SAVANNAH LOGAN REPORTER

Whether or not we ever plan to, reaching out to law enforcement for whatever reason for help can be inevitable at some point in one's life. Whether for aid in safety from a dangerous threat, medical assistance, or in the case of a fire, having your house number in a place that is easy to identify could be lifesaving.

In a post on Facebook, The West Blocton Police Department reminded all residents how important it is to be sure that your house number is clearly marked and visible on your

BY SHEILA DUNCAN

REPORTER

This week we are going to hear from someone most all of us in the community know, this man keeps himself involved in the community as well as his family. I have asked James Murphy a few questions, let's see what he had to share:

Tell us about you, your family and what you are involved with in the community. "I am married to Melanie Oakley Murphy, and we have 4 children and 14 grandchildren with another on the way early next year. I am the fire chief for Brent Fire Department. I am a member of Bethel Baptist Church where I serve as the treasurer. I am the treasurer for Bibb County Choctaw Booster Club. I am also a member of the Bibb County Firefighter Association." What inspired you to get involved in the Bibb County

Booster Club? "I joined because I enjoy helping the young people in our community. We raise money to help fund the football operations at the high school and middle school. We pay to feed the teams on away games and before the games. I wish more people would get involved."

Can you share a memorable story during your time as Fire Chief that really impacted you?

"I think anytime you have to work a fire or wreck where someone dies it really works on you. Often you wonder why a person makes a choice or decision that cost them their life. Just a moment and life is gone, especially when a young person is involved.'

What would be a perfect meal for Melanie to cook for you?

"I like her crockpot pot roast, potatoes, green beans and macaroni. She also makes really good cornbread."

What's the most unexpected hobby or interest you have outside of work?

"We enjoy keeping up with grandchildren. We watch them play ball and other activities that they are involved in. We pray for their safety in this crazy world. I read every day and try to learn something new every day."

Can you describe a typical evening at home for

"I enjoy reading and also watching the news. We go to the little league park a lot to watch the grandkids. And usually have one or two grandchildren at the house during the week."

What's the most surprising thing you've learned through your involvement With the Fire Dept?

"When your alarm goes off you never know what you are going to need to do. First responders are more than a fire, we are also medical responses, lift assist. There are weather related things to deal with such as trees and debris in thr roads after storms. You have to be ready 24/7, 7 days a week for any call that comes in. I work with some great people in the Brent Fire Department as well as others in the

One By One By Frieda McFadden

BY WHITNEY BUŽBEE

CP STAFF

This book is a page-turner. I found myself not wanting to set the book down and as a result, I read this in just two days. If you are easily triggered, be aware that McFadden does explore topics such as infidelity, suicide and child abuse. There's definitely some moments in this novel that I am taken aback that there are human beings in this world, who actually treat their children this way and that gives me lots of pause. I found myself speaking to a colleague about this book and making the statement "How does Freida come up with this stuff?" Some incidents related in the novel left me completely shocked and appalled that this could actually occur. This may be McFadden's attempt to remind us and needs our attention. The story is mostly told from Claire's perspective, so we get a very detailed look at her life and her thoughts. Claire's story line seems very relatable and if you aren't careful you may find yourself taking sides in this relationship dynamic. I was very intrigued by the relationship dynamic of each couple. It really made me ponder how well do you ever know someone that you've known for years? After all, we only know the parts of people that they show us, and nothing more. Do we ever get to fully know someone? What are the secrets close, loved ones are keeping from us? Are they protecting us in doing so? Or should they be transparent and give us the opportunity to decide whether we want to deal with what's revealed or not? I would have enjoyed this novel that child abuse continues to exist

even more had Freida allowed the other characters to share their story from their perspective leading up to the hike in the woods. That way, we would have gotten a better understanding of how each character felt about their significant other and a deeper understanding of their relationship dynamic and lives in general. I think that would've added some more depth to the plot. Reading Freida McFadden's novels are becoming my kryptonite because they're addictive. Like a good streaming series, I just want to continue reading to find out what is going to happen next. At this point, whenever I read a novel penned by McFadden, like Scooby-Doo and the gang, I always try to solve the mystery. However, Freida always manages a plot twist so twisty that it leaves me stunned without fail yet pleased that she did it again. Like... I see what you did there Freids (yes, I'd like to think Freida and I are at that nick-namey level in our relationship). I wouldn't recommend getting this book before planning a hiking trip though. Admittedly, I may be embarking on a small hiking trip coming up here soon and now I can't confirm or deny that I may be on the fence. Thanks to this read, the anxiety is real. Freida — this side-eye is for you. You bet your Aunt Fanny, if I do decide to go, I'll be over preparing for this one. After reading several McFadden novels, I can confidently say her books are easy reads. If you are into suspense, psychological thrillers, mysteries, or just juiciness this is an option for you. I attempted to solve this one and I can proudly say that I somewhat had it figured out. I'm on to you Freida. I'm becoming your neighborhood Nancy Drew over here. Lol.

Jesus Paid It All

not alone. The author of the well-known and beloved hymn "Jesus Paid It All" penned the lyrics while sitting in her normal spot up in the choir loft of Monument Methodist Episcopal Church in Baltimore, Maryland on a hot summer day in the year 1865.

During a lengthy prayer that the pastor seemed to have no intention of ending any time soon, Elvina M. Hall began pondering the beauty in the meaning behind what Jesus did on the cross and our dearest need for salvation. As her mind wandered, words began to flow from her mind so quickly that she had to write them down immediately before they left her. Without paper on hand, she scribbled them into the back of her hymnal. The words she wrote were: "Jesus paid it all. All to Him, I owe. Sin washed it white as snow. He washed away, and when before the throne I stand in him complete. Jesus died my soul to save. My lips shall still repeat."

After the service, Hall took the lyrics she had just penned and showed them to her pastor, Rev. George W. Schreck. Coincidentally, earlier just that same week, our hearts, I have found at savannah.pearce@bibbthe church organist, John that God can use the lyr- communitymedia.com)

he titled "All to Christ I Owe." Thinking that this After completing the hymn together, they then sent the completed hymn to Pro-Sabbath Carols Periodical. Once the song received its first publication, the rest is history.

Growing up in a small, Southern Baptist church, hymns were all I knew until I was a teenager. While my friends always thought the hymns were boring and hard to understand, I althey were. Like Hall, when I found my mind wandering during a service (because hey, it happens), usually I would reach forward to flip through the hymhad left a crimson stain; He nal and read the lyrics to my favorites, mulling over the words' reverence to my God. I still believe there is about the ebbs and flows of these many melodies and verses within these beloved hymns a good deal of us know and love.

Please see that I'm trying my very best. I love you." After a few more steps towards my bed, feet dragging, heart heavy, I heard myself quietly sing familiar words that my ears had not heard in years: "I hear the Savior say, 'Thy strength indeed ways adored how poetic is small; child of weakness watch and pray, find in Me thine all in all." I stopped dead in my tracks, stunned. That song hadn't been on my mind whatsoever, but God brought it back to the surface from the depths of my heart to speak to me that night.

> What a mighty God we just something so beautiful serve. Indeed, it is "all to Him [we] owe."

PUBLIC NOTICE

Early Notice and Public Review of a Proposed Activity in a 100-Year/500year Floodplain

To: All interested Agencies, Groups and Individ-

This is to give notice that the City of Centreville has determined that the following proposed action under Centreville CDBG Drainage Rehabilitation Project No. SM-CM-PF-23-009 is located in the 100-year/500-year floodplain, and the City will be identifying and evaluating practicable alternatives to locating the action in the floodplain and the potential impacts on the floodplain from the proposed action, as required by Executive Order 11988, in accordance with HUD regulations at 24 CFR 55.20 Subpart C Procedures for Making Determinations on Floodplain Management and Protection of Wetlands.

The proposed project is located within incorporated City limits on the west side of the City of Centreville (Bibb County, AL), along Maple Street and Mill Street. The project will involve rehabilitation of the Mill Street drainage ditch, replacement of inadequate storm sewer and install inlets, redirection of drainage away from back ditch area, and clearing of downstream ditches to restore the structural integrity of the system and eliminate problems. The project area includes 53 occupied homes.

A designated FEMA Flood Zone (Zone A) is located within the project area. Rehabilitation measures will involve the rehabilitation only of the existing drainage system. The implementation of the project will result in improvements to the public drainage system which will provide potential benefits to public health and the environment. All construction will take place within the previously disturbed easements and right-of-way maintained by the City of Centreville. All necessary grassing, clean-up and erosion control measures will take place in accordance with Best Management Practices. Impacts will be temporary in nature only during construction.

There are three primary purposes for this notice. First, people who may be affected by activities in floodplains and those who have an interest in the protection of the should be given an opportunity to express their concerns and provide information about these Commenters areas. are encouraged to offer alternative sites outside of the floodplain, alternative methods to serve the same project purpose, and methods to minimize and mitigate impacts. Alabama Medical Cannabis Commission

The time has come for requirements: the Alabama Medical Cannabis Commission (AMCC) to fulfill its promise and deliver medical cannabis to the patients in Alabama who have been waiting far too long. This delay is not just an administrative failure but a critical issue impacting the health and well-being of countless individuals in our state.

In 2021, legislation was enacted to provide medical cannabis to suffering Alabamians from a range of serious including conditions, cancer, glaucoma, and chronic pain. The AMCC was entrusted with the responsibility of developing a comprehensive process, application evaluating applicants across various categories — from cultivation to dispensing—and awarding licenses to qualified the most

The expectation was clear: by the end of 2023, or at the latest 2024, medical cannabis would be available to those in need.

However, as we approach the middle of 2024, medical cannabis remains inaccessible. The question is, what went wrong?

The AMCC failed suffering Alabamians in numerous ways. Here are a few critical issues:

Failure to adhere to statutory guidelines: The AMCC did not follow the strict guidelines outlined in Alabama Code 20-2A-50, which we was passed in the State Legislature.

Technology failures: The commission's system could not accept application materials larger than 10MB, and applicants were not informed of this limitation. Moreover, workaround solutions were inconsistently provided. Ignoring initial

The AMCC allowed all applicants to advance to the next stage of the licensing process, regardless of whether they met the initial pass/ fail criteria.

Lack of transparency: AMCC has The frequently violated Meetings the Open holding closed-Act, door sessions and disregarding the Alabama Administrative Procedure Act, as highlighted in recent court filings. These issues have led to a protracted judicial process, including multiple hearings and temporary restraining orders. Applicants are now demanding transparency and accountability, seeking discovery to uncover the commission's operational shortcomings. Numerous applicants have joined forces in legal actions, insisting that the AMCC rectify its mistakes and restart the process correctly.

At the heart of this issue is the AMCC's failure to comply with the statute that we set forth in the Legislature and the regulations outlined in the Alabama Administrative Procedure Act. The commission must recognize that it has a legal and moral obligation to follow these guidelines. The members and staff don't get to pick and choose which rules to follow and operate under the mantra of "rules for thee and not for me."

This issue is personal to me. Over my 22 years of service in the Legislature, I've often spoken about my father who is a reallife American wheelchair-bound disabled veteran who fought in Desert Storm I. My dad lives every single day in chronic pain! I see the pain in his eyes. I hear the grimaces of discomfort. I, like many other daughters, sons, mothers and fathers in Alabama wish that something was available to give him some type of relief so that he could live the quality of life that he deserves after fighting for the freedoms that many Americans take for granted. So for my father and the countless other Alabamians with these debilitating ailments, I say directly to the Commission, right this wrong, and right this wrong NOW!

The AMCC has the opportunity to correct its course and deliver on its promise. By adhering to Alabama law, the commission can ensure that medical cannabis reaches the patients in Alabama who desperately need it. The path forward is clear now is the time for the AMCC to listen and act.

Donald J. Trump Probably Will Be The 47th President of the United States

I was watching the Trump rally on television the late Saturday afternoon of July 13, and saw the horrific assassination attempt on President Donald Trump. I followed the aftermath and discussions for the next 48 hours and knew that I was watching the revelation of history. The scenes of the horrific incident will be seen for years in historic documents and films. The reaction by President Trump, rising above the Secret Service detail and heroically pumping his fist into the air shouting to the immense throng of worshippers, "Fight! Fight! Fight!" will be seen millions of times between now and November 5.

The mere fact that Trump had the strength and presence of mind to get up and react was amazing after being hit by a bullet and tackled by five Secret Service agents. He actually wanted to continue his speech to the tremendous Pennsylvania audience. He revealed a resilience that I do not believe even his most ardent followers thought he had. That picture of him with blood on his face, defiantly pumping his fist, and saying, "Fight!", will be an indelible iconic image forever in the annals of presidential politics. The Secret Service did a good job of getting to Trump and covering the President. However, the Secret Service and its director became villainized by the inexplicable inability to secure the rally surroundings from a person carrying a rifle onto the top of a building with a clear view less than 150 yards from where the President was delivering his address.

The most remarkable unfolding of the event was the fact that if President Trump had not turned his head to the right at that exact moment, the bullet would have hit him right in the head and killed him rather than simply grazing his ear. That was without question, divine intervention.

It was obvious when Trump appeared at the GOP Convention on Monday night, a mere 51 hours after almost being murdered, he had a quiet, calm redemptive composure. He had the same mellow demeanor as he gave his acceptance speech on Thursday night. He looks and sounds presidential. He realizes that God spared his life. A mere millimeter difference in the bullet's trajectory, caused by the exact timing of his turning his head, saved his life. The former and probably next President had a Damascus Road experience.

The entire country, including Republicans, Independents, and even Democrats, have seen the cognitive decline of current President Joe Biden over the last three years. It has accelerated over the last three months, and it will not improve. Even the most ardent Democratic politicians and pundits have overtly acknowledged that he cannot lead the country for four more months, much less four more years. Lights are out on the reelection of Joe Biden. His reluctance to leave the race revealed that a small insular group of close advisors, including his wife Jill, were keeping him isolated because they liked running the White House and remaining in the limelight.

There is complete discord and disarray within the Democratic Party. Democratic leaders in the Senate and House have been urging Biden's handlers to allow him to step aside as their presidential candidate. Their fear was that Biden's name atop the ticket would not only assure the loss of the White House but would cause the Democrats to lose the House of Representatives and U.S. Senate.

Biden's recent departure from the race will allow the Democrats to field a potentially viable presidential candidate, probably Vice President Kamala Harris. However, regardless of whoever is selected to be the Democratic nominee, the assassination attempt on the life of President Trump and his iconic fist pump has galvanized the Republican Party base and probably made Donald J. Trump the 47th President of the United States.

William Sketoe Sr., known as Bill, was a Methodist preacher from the small town of Newton, AL. The circumstances of his death have become one of Alabama's most wellknown ghost stories.

According to legend, Bill was detained on December 3rd, 1864, while crossing the bridge over the Choctawhatchee River in North Newton, rumored to be on his way to purchase medicine for his ailing wife. The Home Guard dragged him to Home Guard was cursed to the nearby woods and beat him. The men then threw a rope over a post oak limb and slowly tightened the noose around Bill Sketoe's neck. A friend pleaded for the minister's life, but to no avail. Breare asked Sketoe for his last words, and the minister requested to pray. Instead of praying for himself, he prayed for the people who were killing him, echoing the passage in Luke 23:34 where Jesus says, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

It's said that Sketoe warned the men that if they killed him, they'd never forget this day or this spot. This only further ignited Breare's rage, and he tightened the noose, sending Sketoe's body into the air. But Sketoe was a large man—both in stature and weight. The tree limb bent, and his feet still touched the ground. The men hurriedly dug a hole around his feet to hang him properly. Sketoe eventually succumbed to the strangulation.

Since that fateful day, the hole has become the real mystery. I first heard the story of the hole that wouldn't stay covered when I was around eight years old. Alabama Residents Gain Early Access to State Park Reservations

BY SHEILA DUNCAN REPORTER

Alabama residents will soon have the advantage of making reservations for traditional campground accommodations (RV, modern, and primitive camping) at Alabama State Parks a month earlier than other travelers. Starting August 1, 2024, Alabamians can make online reservations 13 months in advance, a month before out-of-state residents. This initiative, termed the "Alabama Residents Advanced Reservation Window," offers state residents greater flexibility in pricing, location, and date options. "Alabamians tently support our 21 State Parks, and this is a way we can show our appreciation," said Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources Commissioner Chris Blankenship. "Allowing Alabama residents to book earlier gives our neighbors expanded opportunities to stay, play, and explore throughout our State Parks." For example, Alabamians will be able to book Labor Day 2025 as early as August 1, 2024. Destinations like Cheaha State Park, known for its peak fall foliage season, have seen reservations sell out within hours a year in advance. The new advanced reservation window aims to make it easier for residents to secure such high-demand bookings.

Reservations can be made online through the Plan Your Adventure Online portal at alapark.com. Users will be prompted to provide a zip code when accessing the online reservation system. Alabama zip codes will enable residents to make reservations 13 months in advance, while out-of-state zip codes will allow reservations 12 months in advance.

To ensure that only Alabama residents use the 13-month booking window, the zip code attached to the credit card for the reservation must match the Alabama zip code provided at the start. This added security feature helps maintain the exclusivity of the early booking privilege for state residents.

"In recent years, we have heard from Alabama residents inquiring about some form of reservation option that is unique to our state's residents. With changes in our reservations system, we now have that technological capability and have made this happen," State Parks Director Greg Lein said. "We encourage guests to make reservations early and often through our Plan Your Adventure Online portal available on our website at alapark.com. We truly appreciate all the support Alabamians give our State Parks."

Whether guests come for a day on the trails or weeks of scenic park views, the Alabama State Parks system offers park-specific events, interpretive programming, rest, relaxation, and adventure. Park leadership encourages guests to plan ahead at alapark.com for the most flexible dates, rates, and location opportunities at Alabama's 21 state parks.

It Takes a Village to Raise a Child

BY LYNN HAMRIC

REPORTER

In a few days area children will be returning to school. Many will be lacking necessary school supplies to support their learning experience. In an effort to bridge that gap, on July 13, 2024, members of Word of Faith Church gathered in the church fellowship hall for the distribution of over 200 backpacks filled with school supplies. This exciting event was organized by the Youth Department and Church Administrator.

The excitement was indeed palpable. The children (and parents) were grateful for this assistance in a time when finances can be stretched thin. The photos are evidence of that with the bright, smiling faces and that annual excitement that getting ready Word of Faith (formerly Purity Holiness Church of God}, has been a viable part of our community for over 47 years. With an active membership of approximately 50, Pastor Dr. Bernard Steele, ably assisted by Co-Pastor, Dr. Alice Steele; Assistant Pastor, Elder Larry Lilly; Youth Minister, Elder Greg Robertson; and Youth Director, Sister Pam Moore work together to "walk the walk". These dedicated folks take the response Jesus gave in Matthew 25:40 seriously when said to His followers: "The King will answer them, 'Truly I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brothers, you did it to me.'

For these children there will be a bright beginning for their school year. For these church members they will hear, "Well done, my good and faithful servant".

Right in the Middle of Things: Centreville Field Office

By Matthew Estes, Communications Director

It's a fresh start of the Centreville Field Office in Bibb County, which recently moved from Market Street to 1055 Birmingham Road right off U.S. Highway 82, the main bypass through the town and neighboring Brent. With the move, the newer, more functional building was better able to match pace with an already talented staff. "This is a great upgrade for them," said District 3A Manager Lamanda Thomas, praising the office camaraderie organizational skills, and team atmosphere.

Indeed, the Centreville staff is surprisingly productive and organized, with a staff of only four: Officer-in-Charge Stewart Dellinger, Officer Eli Smith, Specialist Senior Katlin King, and Administrative Support Assistant III Kim Ray. While most field offices serve only their own home county, Centreville is in the unique position of serving three: Bibb, Hale, and Perry. While the combined population isn't much different than a mid-sized Alabama County, it takes a lot of planning for a small staff to cover one of the largest geographic areas of any field office.

To mitigate challenges for probationers and parolees, the office conducts monthly off-site reporting in Greensboro, 40 miles away in Hale County. Fortunately, the office can rely on more than 40 years of combined experience to keep things moving and get the job done. "Scheduling is what keeps us going. Generally, we look a month ahead," said OIC Dellinger, with more than 20 years of experience in the field of probation.

Dellinger shouted out the organizational skills of his staff, particularly Kim Ray who also has more than 20 years in her role: "I don't know what I'd do without her." They've been working together in Centreville since 2011, and Ray has the know-how to keep everyone on track with their busy schedules. A unique feature in Ray's reception area is a typewriter – something not found in most modern offices. Ray has excellent computer skills because of her duties, but if she needs to do something quickly like address an envelope or add text to a document, she will slide over to the typewriter to avoid dealing with the fuss of a word processer.

Officer Eli Smith loves "being able to help in [clients'] rehabilitation process." He uses his background as a pastor to guide and edify, talking to people with empathy while still being highly effective at his job. Senior Specialist Katlin King is a logistical expert and calming presence, able to develop a one-on-one rapport with probationers and parolees and get them much-needed help and resources. These four talented employees are right in the middle of things, serving the surrounding communities with distinction and using their combined strengths to become more than the sum of their parts.

The Bureau has 62 field offices, serving all Alabama counties. Field offices function as a local base of operations for Probation and Parole Officers, specialists and other support staff. Officers are required to make various contacts with probationers and parolees based on their risk level. These contacts range from a monthly office visit for lower risk individuals to weekly office, home, employment and curfew checks for higher risk individuals. In addition, officers are tasked with various types of investigations requested by the Bureau or courts, as well as assisting other law enforcement agencies when needed.
